

Ed Moss

- Change facilitation expert
- My core values: coaching / mentoring, community involvement, courage
- Clients find me: clear and kind, creative, accessible and pragmatic
- Favourite pastime: Travel, yoga, cooking, singing, dancing and all with friends

I am passionate about uncovering the courage, perspectives and connections needed so that people can thrive in purposeful work together.

I have over 12 years experience as a facilitator, trainer and consultant working across the public, charity and private sectors. I describe myself as a 'recovering overachiever' having had a meteoric rise early in my early career. By 28 I was the CEO of an organisation leading transformational change across a large network, but struggling with making a space to develop the required skills to thrive. I realised that much of the change leadership and management training and services available to freelancers as well as small and medium sized organisations focused too heavily on delivering unsustainable growth. A new less hierarchical and trusting approach is required for creating healthy workplaces that support people to thrive in the complexity of the 21st century world of work.

Core to my beliefs, I work as a leader offering an engaging kind of leadership and organisational development learning experience with my clients.

I live on a narrowboat, travelling the canals around Greater Manchester, which gives me an interesting and different perspective and the flexibility to choose where to be based.

